Who Will Reign As Princess ? Winner To Be Named Tonight

Tuition Costs May Rise; Mill Increase Not Sought For This Year, Says Bail

Another tuition hike may be in order for Omaha University students. President Bail has announced that the University will not seek to hold another mill levy election this year and that the money will have to come from some other source.

President Bail said that he wouldn't be surprised to see the cost per credit hour raised one dollar for resident students and slightly more for non-residents. Dr. Bail said that although there will be no election during this school year, there could be an election next year or two years from now.

The present two mills which the University receives from the city is hardly enough tax money to support a school which has 8,138 students this semester, Dr. Bail commented.

Omaha University hopes an increase in private contributions will help to relieve the financial problems caused by the increased enrollment and no tax increase.

Dr. Bail said that Omaha University is temporarily gaining relief by:

-Asking faculty members to work much harder than their colleagues at other universities.

-Turning the school more and more into a "private university" where the student shares the cost of his education 50-50 with the taxpayer. OU students are currently paying 70 per cent.

-Encouraging more people and corporations to make contributions and gifts.

The University does not want to limit the enrollment through entrance requirements based on high school performance, Dr. Bail said.

Some suggestions were offered by Dr. Bail to help handle an enrollment of 12,500 by the 1968-69 school year.

He said that students would have to learn to study by themselves as OU wouldn't be able to hire enough teachers to supervise them closely.

Even though the tuition will be raised, Dr. Bail said that OU doesn't want to price non-resident students out of an education.

Dr. Bail added that about 65 percent of this fall's students are Omaha residents. About 92 per cent live in the Greater Omaha area, and help the university contribute an estimated 39 million dollars to the city's economy annually.

Student Council Outlines Plans; Parade Is Today

The rules and regulations for a homecoming parade were formed at the student council meeting last Tuesday. All persons wishing to drive in the parade must comply with the following rules.

All cars must have registered during the week in the Student Center, and must have a number displayed on the windshield of the car. The maximum of 60 cars that will be permitted in the parade must be decorated with streamers, banners, placards and etc. Cars in the parade must be formed and ready to leave Elmwood Park at 1:20 p.m. Friday.

The parade will begin to form at 12:45 p.m. at Elmwood Park Drive just to the east of the Adm. Bldg, facing North and will proceed out on to Dodge Street at 1:30 p.m.

The parade will last until approximately 2:30, and will proceed from OU through the downtown district, and back to OU.

The Student Council has urged that everyone use caution and exhibit common sense while participating in the parade.

Changes Planned By OU Officials For 2 Entrances

By Dick Fletcher

Plans have been laid to solve the acute traffic situation on campus. A recent study by the physical plant department shows that a total of 11,000 cars pass in or out of the four entrances and exits to the campus daily. Omaha University officials have been meeting this week discussing probable solutions to ease the problem.

Two things are in the offing and appear certain to be carried out as soon as possible. They are:

—widening as much as possible the 64th street entrance and exit on Dodge Street.

—closing the portion of 62nd Street that passes between the Student Center and the Library

President Milo Bail said the University will go ahead with the widening at the 64th Street entrance as soon as the city's public works department okays it. Dr. Bail added that he expects no opposition from the city, and normal traffic thru that access will not be impeded.

Additional Lanes

He said this will mean one and possibly two additional lanes for exit traffic, which are sorely needed.

Head of the Physical Plant Department, Clarence Lefler, released the results of the traffic study made last week. It showed that the 64th Street corner handles slightly over 25 percent of the University's total traffic. Lefler noted that while 1,045 cars daily use 64th as an entrance, 1,700 cars exit through it. And of that total, as many cars are turning left as are turning right onto Dodge.

Under the present arrangement, cars easily become backed up waiting for a left-turn to be made. This happens because there is only one lane for exit traffic.

Stoplight?

The University also hopes to persuade the city to put in a stoplight at 64th Street, to facilitate left turns onto Dodge.

The other project soon to be undertaken will be on a temporary basis and deals with the 62nd Street access. Barriers will be put up as soon as the contractors who are working on the library additions are finished and move out—probably about Dec. 1.

All traffic entering the 62nd street access will be routed down the road in front of the Library. Here students can be let out of cars and the cars will then proceed back onto Dodge. That same study shows over 400 cars do this at the present time.

Other barricades will be placed a little further south on 62nd Street, just south of the Student Center entrance.

Two-way Traffic

The rest of 62nd Street will become temporarily two-way traffic so that the reserved parking lot on the side of the library will be accessible and the loading dock for the SC, and the field house's lower drive.

The reason for this move? According to figures released by Lefler, 12 percent of the OU traffic, 1,100 cars use the 62nd Street entrance . . . of which more than 700 proceed by the front of the student center.

Need Urgent

According to Dr. Bail, "With that much traffic there every day, something has got to be done before someone is killed."

It has not been determined as yet how long this temporary barricade set-up will last, but it may be a hint as to the permanent closing of 62nd Street as far as it runs between the SC and the Library.

Other figures released show that some 11,000 cars daily are handled by the four entrances and exits . . . the percentage breakdown is: Elmwood Park entrance . . . 52 percent . . . 64th, 25 percent; 62nd, 12 percent; and 60th, 11 percent.

So far no definite plans have been made concerning the park road and 60th Street.

CO-ED OF THE WEEK

We had to move inside to photograph this week's GATEWAY co-ed but she is by no means the indoor type.

Junior Judy Jensen loves ice skating and winter sports so she welcomed this week's cooler weather as a sign of things to come.

The 20-year-old brunette is majoring in Education and is a member of Alpha Xi Delta. She was Sophomore Class Secretary and was voted "Outstanding Pledge" by her sisters in 1961.

Our co-ed carries a 2.8 average and was voted one of the ten "best dressed" women on campus last spring.

She finds time to be chairman of the OU chapter of the Omaha Volunteer Bureau along with being active in WRA as bowling treasurer. She is also a member of the Student Center Program Committee.

The GATEWAY is published weekly by students of the Omaha University Department of Journalism. Editorial comment and signed letters to the editor are not necessarily representative opinions of the faculty, administration or student body.

EDITORIAL VOICE

Lazy Students

One speaker on the first day of school a few years back asked all the students in the auditorium to take a good look at the person on their right and on their left. Then he said, "All right, only one of you three will be back here at Omaha University to start your second year."

The reason for the big dropouts and flunkouts . . . laziness. Too many students think that life at college is just a "bowl of cherries".

There are many legitimate reasons for dropping out of school, but our big gripe is there are too many "vegetables" who think they're students. They come to class, don't open a book and aren't mature enough to realize there is a vast storeroom of knowledge waiting at their finger tips.

There are two distinct places that harbor "scholars" on this campus. The adequate Gene Eppley Library and the building situated directly west of it.

This is not meant to knock the Student Center and its facilities, just the "scholars" who live there and destroy the academic reputation of our university.

If time was a little more proportionately spent between the two buildings, a grade point average comparison might not show much, but at the present time, a comparison would be useless.

We're tired of the academic reputation of this institution being dragged down by bar-room fugitives who are pool sharks and the numerous "scholars" who major in OUampi room sitting.

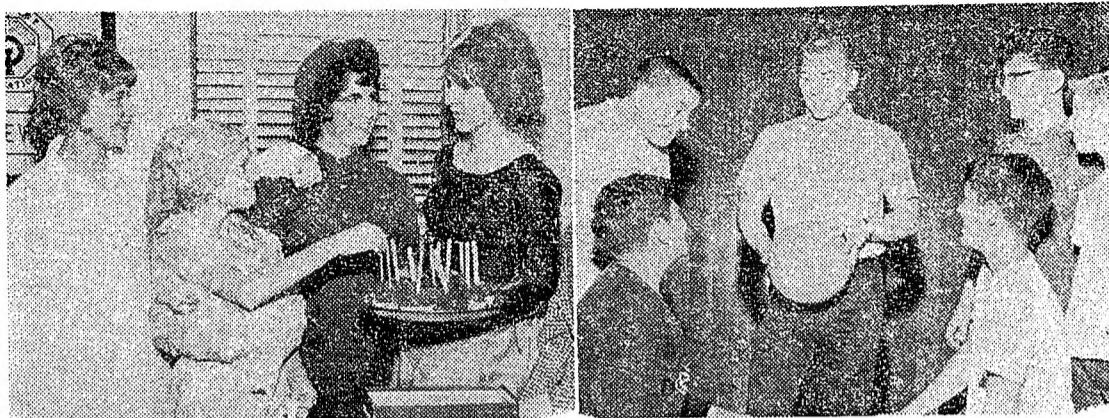

It's no wonder that a few years ago it was rumored that OU had the highest dropout percentage of any college or university in the nation.

When we graduate, we don't want people saying, "OU? You must have had a pretty easy time, nobody studies out there."

It's a good thing the majority of the bootstrappers and most of the Greek organizations add the much needed maturity to the campus and begin to balance out the academic ledger with grades other than those marked "below average" and "failure".

Students Donate Spare Time As Omaha's USC Volunteers

Marija serves the cake at a Halloween party. Fred and his team enjoy an impromptu basketball game.

by Mike Moran

How would you like to meet two of the most patient people in Omaha? The GATEWAY will introduce them to you if you haven't already met them.

First we'd like to have you meet Marija Petrikonis, of 3428 "V" St. Marija is an attractive and personable 20-year-old University of Omaha junior. She is majoring in Sociology and went to a Lithuanian boarding school in Putnam, Connecticut, for her high school years.

So, you ask, what makes her so patient? Well, you see,

OU Blood Drive Labeled Success

Omaha U's "extra Good Guys" rolled up their sleeves to the tune of 95 pints during the annual United Community Services Blood Drive last Wednesday.

The total was a drop of twelve pints from 1962 but drive co-chairmen Gary Meester and Don Houghton still termed the effort a success.

OU students and Red Cross workers served coffee and doughnuts to the long lines of donors on the third floor of the Student Center which served as drive headquarters last Wednesday.

Lambda Chi Alpha took home the fraternity trophy with a total of 21 pints donated. Chi Omega and Alpha Xi Delta tied for sorority honors with three pints each and will share this year's trophy.

Besides the organizations, there were many individual donors who wished to remain anonymous and refuse group credit for their efforts.

Officials announced that there will be another blood drive similar to this one in the second semester.

Marija is just one of the hundreds of volunteer workers throughout the city who donate their spare time and abundant energy to social work and instruction at Omaha's United Community Services sponsored chapters.

Miss Petrikonis is a charm and dance instructor at the West Christ Child Center, 1227 So. 22 St. She works at the Center on Thursday and Friday nights with young girls in the sixth to eighth grade level, teaching them modern dance and the things that give a girl poise and personality.

Marija got her start in social work through Dr. Phillip Vogt's sociology classes. She and the other students in the class all work part time at some kind of social work such as the Center.

After graduation, Marija expressed a definite desire to continue with her work as well as try for her Master's Degree. Marija was assigned to the Christ Child Center through her class and the help of the Volunteer Bureau of Omaha chapter at OU.

Most of the students can pick the place they would like to work but as Marija says, "We want to go where we can do the most good with our particular talents."

During her Thursday and Friday night group meetings, which last from about seven to nine each evening, Marija will instruct a group of twenty girls in the Senior Division and nine in the Junior Group.

She will teach them everything from how to walk properly to the latest in ballet steps. When we visited her, she was presiding over a Halloween party for her girls, complete with food and games and all the trimmings. Marija's costume "Isn't what I usually wear," she added quickly.

Although her assignment to the Center is strictly on a one semester basis, Marija has volunteered for another term during the spring semester.

Judging by the reaction of her young pupils, this won't be an unpopular decision.

Next, we'd like to have you meet one of the most popular basketball coaches in South Omaha. He's Fred Scarpello, of 1214 So. 22nd St.

Fred also works at the Christ Child West Branch. He's a physical education and games instructor. Fred is a freshman at OU, majoring in engineering and is a 1961 graduate of Central High in Omaha.

Fred works at the Center four nights a week besides attending night classes at the University. He calls himself "a jack of all trades" as far as his duties go, but we found him organizing an impromptu basketball game in the gym when we visited the Center.

A future in engineering awaits Fred, and to get ready, he has worked over forty hours a week on a highway survey crew to get the necessary experience.

You may wonder where these two find the time to work with the kids and keep up with all their other occupations at the same time.

It's a pleasant dilemma for them, though, and you hear no complaints from either one. If you would like to find out just what that feeling is like, why don't you drop over to the Volunteer Bureau's booth in the Student Center any Wednesday and see where you might fit in the program.

There are hundreds of Omaha youngsters and adults, both well and crippled, lonely or bored, who are waiting for a person like you.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"SAY YOU CAN DRAW REAL GOOD WORTHAL — EVER THOUGHT OF TAKING AN ART COURSE?"

Criminology Department To Add Several Courses

Several new courses will be offered in the criminology program at Omaha University this coming year. Criminology is offered in connection with Sociology and the College of Adult Education.

"There is a degree offered in this program," said Assistant Professor of Sociology Gaylon Kuchel, who instructs criminology. "It is a Bachelor of Science in law enforcement and security."

Criminology and its related fields is a new course on the University campus. It was first introduced in the fall of 1962. It is a program aimed at the local police officers and to interest young people to go into law enforcement.

Law enforcement officers will be interested in the course, Law Enforcement and Security. It is now being taught and includes a history of law enforcement.

New courses

"A course in Juvenile Delinquency will be offered next fall," said Mr. Kuchel. "And a penology program is planned for the spring semester."

These programs are basically orientated to introduce the student to the whole general field of crime and justice. The types of crimes and criminals will be discussed. Also the courses will provide a theoried approach toward causes of crime, police, probation, and courts. A program in advanced criminology and traffic accident investigation is planned.

Next semester a new course, Psychology of Criminal Behavior, will be started. It will carry credits in both Sociology and C.A.E.

Dr. James Reinhardt, professor of criminology from the University of Nebraska will instruct. It will deal with normal and abnormal criminals.

Aims of Criminology

"The aims of criminology are two-fold," said Mr. Kuchel. "One aim is directed toward the law enforcement group—to the professionalization of crime work."

Kuchel said the other aim is toward the sociology major. "It helps promote a better understanding of law enforcement and the powers of criminal justice. It is to interest people in the many areas of criminology."

"Our courses try to make the student understand criminal behavior, why do people commit crimes and why they fail to rehabilitate," continued Kuchel.

OU Instructors Attended History Meet in Lincoln

Omaha University history instructors, Dr. Paul Beck, Mr. Earl Dalstrom and Dr. Donald Drapeau attended the 12th Annual Midwest Conference on Asian Affairs held in Lincoln Oct. 18 and 19.

Former Vietnamese Ambassador to the United States, Tran Van Chung spoke about the Buddhist crisis in Vietnam.

Other discussions concerned modern China, modern Japan, India, Sino-Soviet relations, the Middle East, Korea and the Philippines.

The meetings were held at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education at the University of Nebraska.

The purpose of the annual conference is to assist scholars working in or interested in Asian History.

"Specific types of crimes are studied and an organized plan an investigator can follow is offered."

Mr. Kuchel feels there is a definite need in this field. "It becomes more and more apparent as the professionalization of law enforcement and crime occurs."

OU Gets New Switchboard

Omaha University students who have experienced the trying experience of placing a phone call into the university, needn't worry any longer.

This problem has been solved by installing a new and larger switch board. This new switch board has been in operation since May 3.

The switch board is operated by one regular operator, Mrs. Corrada Huntington, and student relief operators.

Mrs. Huntington feels the larger switch board will be to their advantage. The new switch is equipped with extra lines to handle the expansion of the university. And in this way, reduce any confusion in making phone calls. It also makes training new operators easier, Mrs. Huntington replied.

The operators are not primarily a source of information, but are constantly plagued with questions. Some of the most unusual ones include, how do you get tickets for Nebraska University's football game, or how do you spell this word?

Everyone thinks that this is the seat of knowledge, and that we know everything. It is not uncommon for people to call up with some unusual bug or flower seed they have found and want us to know what it is, Mrs. Huntington stated.

Notices

Classes will be dismissed today to 12:20 p.m. so everyone can participate in the Homecoming Parade which will begin to form at 12:45 p.m. at Elmwood Park Drive.

Night classes will be held as usual.

Cambridge University will debate Omaha U. on the subject "Has the American Dream Become a Nightmare?"

The debate will be held in the Adm. Bldg. Auditorium at 11:30 a.m. today. Admission is free.

Films of OU football games are shown on Wednesday at 12:30 in room 313 SC. Coach Al Caniglia narrates the films.

Utle: Russo-Sino Internal Council Is Over Rest Method To Bury US

Speaker next Wednesday for the World Affairs Institute will be Columnist Roscoe Drummond, head of the New York Herald Tribune Washington Bureau.

Drummond's topic is "United States Impact on the World in '63," and will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Adm. auditorium.

As a staff reporter for the Christian Science Monitor, Drummond started his journalistic career in 1924.

Appearing frequently on radio and before television, Drummond is also a major contributor to magazines.

He is past president of the Overseas Writers Club, a member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and also a member of the National Press Club.

Freda Utle

Speaking at this week's World Affairs Institute was Freda Utle, traveler-journalist.

"Why should we help one devil or the other, those that are trying to destroy us," Utle said.

Utle's topic was China and Russia: The internal conflict.

She said the conflict between Russia and China affects the whole world and is one of ideology and personality.

"The conflict is an argument over the best method to bury us," she said. "It is a power struggle among the leaders of those nations with the people playing no part."

Greater Danger

Utle said China is following Lenin's "orthodox" line in believing a violent revolution is a necessity for Communist world domination.

"Khrushchev is far the greater danger of the two leaders. He is more flexible in his policy and more clever than Mao-Tse-Tung."

Borsheim Tabled 'Coach Of Year'

Basketball coach, Jim Borsheim, received an award as a Coach of the Year last week from his alma mater, Westmar College at LeMars, Ia. A 1946 graduate, Borsheim and Robert Darrah, class of 1958 received similar awards for their accomplishments in the coaching profession.

Borsheim's ability to transform losing teams into winners was cited by Westmar officials. After graduation from the Iowa school, Borsheim took over the reins at Strasburg, Colo., and took the school to the state tournament twice. The year previous to his arrival they had won only one cage contest.

After leaving Strasburg, Borsheim started winning habits at Doane College, Westmar, and Hopers, Ia. He then moved to Dakota Wesleyan at Mitchell, S. D. In five years of coaching at the Dakota school Borsheim's basketball teams compiled a record of 77 victories against 33 defeats.

Now in his third season at OU, Borsheim has improved on each of the previous season's records. In the '61-'62 season the OU record was 5-14 and then last year it was improved to 10-11. With his best crop of freshman players during his three year tenure here he feels that this could be his best season on the University campus.

OU Freshman Dies In Two-Car Mishap

A University of Omaha freshman died last week in a two car accident at the intersection of Twenty-fourth and A Streets.

He was Thomas F. Eros, 18, of 1501 Harrison Street.

A passenger in the Eros car, Virginia Barkus, 16, of 5215 South Thirty-second Street, was injured slightly and was reported in satisfactory condition in a local hospital.

Eros, a South High graduate, entered OU in September. He registered in Liberal Arts but did not have a declared major.

HOW SMALL CAN YOU GET?

Today let us address ourselves to a question that has long rocked and roiled the academic world: Is a student better off at a small college than at a large college?

To answer this question it is necessary first to define terms. What, exactly, do we mean by a small college? Well sir, some say that in order to be called truly small, a college should have an enrollment of not more than four students.

I surely have no quarrel with this statement; a four-student college must unequivocally be called small. Indeed, I would even call it intime if I knew what intime meant. But I submit there is such a thing as being too small. Take, for instance, a recent unfortunate event at Crimscott A and M.

Crimscott A and M, situated in a pleasant valley nestled between Philadelphia and Salt Lake City, was founded by

A. and M. Crimscott, two brothers who left Ireland in 1625 to escape the potato famine of 1841. As a result of their foresight, the Crimscott brothers never went without potatoes for one single day of their lives—and mighty grateful they were!

One night, full of gratitude after a wholesome meal of French fries, cottage fries, hash browns, and au gratin, they decided to show their appreciation to this bountiful land of potatoes by endowing a college. But their generosity contained one stipulation: the enrollment of the college must never exceed four students. They felt that only by keeping the school this small could each student be assured of the personalized attention, the camaraderie, the esprit, that is all too often lacking in larger institutions of higher learning.

Well sir, things went along swimmingly until one Saturday a few years ago. On this day Crimscott had a football game scheduled against Minnesota, its traditional rival. Football, as you can well imagine, was something of a problem at Crimscott, what with only four undergraduates in the entire college. It was easy enough to muster a backfield, but to find a good line—or even a bad line—baffled some of the most resourceful coaching minds in the nation.

Well sir, on the morning of the big game against Minnesota, its traditional rival, a capricious fate dealt Crimscott a cruel blow—in fact, four cruel blows. Sigafos, the quarterback, woke up that morning with an impacted incisor. Wrichards, the slotback, flunked his taxidermy exam and was declared ineligible. Bearbohm-Tree, the wingback-tailback, got his necktie caught in his espresso machine. Yuld, the fullback, was stolen by gypsies.

Consequently, none of the Crimscott team showed up at the football game, and Minnesota, its traditional rival, was able to score almost at will. Crimscott was so cross after this humiliating defeat that they immediately broke off football relations with Minnesota, its traditional rival. This later became known as the Sacco-Vanzetti Case.

So you can see how only four students might be too meagre an enrollment. The number that I personally favor is twenty. Why? you ask. Because, I reply, when you have twenty students and one of them opens a pack of Marlboro Cigarettes, there are enough to go around for everybody, and no one has to be deprived of Marlboro's flavor, of Marlboro's filter, of Marlboro's staunch and steadfast companionship, and as a result you have a student body that is brimming with sweet content and amity and harmony and concord and togetherness and soft pack and Flip-Top box.

That's why.

OU Language Head Dr. Espinosa Announces His Plans To Resign

Dr. Christopher Espinosa has announced his plans to resign as head of the Foreign Language Department.

A part of Omaha University since 1931, Dr. Espinosa was head of the department in 1950.

"As you know, my retirement is mandatory at the end of this academic year. Next year, with the expected population explosion, is bound to be exacting on the administration. It is only fair that a free hand be given to them," said Dr. Espinosa.

A native of Spain, Dr. Espinosa earned his Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Barcelona and his Ph.D. at the University of Rome. He has also done graduate work at Columbia University.

"My main interest has been teaching," he said, "any my hobbies center around it, too."

"When I first came to Omaha in 1931, the old Spanish Club was having a precarious existence," he continued.

"From the very first week after my arrival, I gave the organization my hearty support."

A foreign Language Center was established in downtown Omaha in 1943. This was done by Omaha U and Offutt Air Force Base. Dr. Espinosa organized and directed the Center.

During and after World War II the Center offered non-credit conversational language courses. Most of the people taking the six-week study were planning to go overseas. Almost 1,000 students studied Spanish, German, French, Italian, Portuguese, Japanese and Chinese.

"This was the first time Japanese and Chinese were offered in Omaha. The Air Force, especially, wanted its people to be able to speak some in the country they were to live in. Also, many of the people were Omaha business men," explained Dr. Espinosa.

The Center lasted about eight years. The present Spanish Club La Casa de las Americas was an outgrowth of the Center.

La Casa was founded by Dr. Espinosa to help the Spanish students practice the language without classroom formalities.

"We still are very active. Every first Tuesday we meet at the Hotel Regis. First we have dinner and then speakers. Sometimes they come from outside the club, but mostly they are our own members. Of course, the meetings are all in Spanish.

Dr. Espinosa . . . . to retire

"The bootstrappers and officers from SAC have been very valuable and enthusiastic members. Because of their wide travels they have much to offer," explained Dr. Espinosa.

"I should be ungrateful if I would not recognize Mrs. Espinosa. She has been much of the cause of the club's long success," he added.

Each year the club has a big celebration on Pan-American Day, April 14, and at Christmas.

"Everyone comes in costume. We celebrate in the Spanish style with singing and entertainment. At Christmas, especially, anyone is welcome," said Dr. Espinosa.

Another activity the Espinosas organized was summer travel to Spanish countries. Sponsored by Omaha U, they conducted three trips for college credit.

"In 1954 we traveled in southern Mexico. Then in 1955 we went to the Dominican Republic, Cuba, Haiti, Jamaica and Puerto Rico. During 1956 we returned to tour the northern part of Mexico," he related.

The trips averaged about $400 a student, and about 25 students went each time.

During his years at Omaha U, Dr. Espinosa has started the annual High School Foreign Language Speaking Contest for Omaha area students. Also he founded the annual Nebraska Foreign Language Teachers Conference held in the fall.

Dr. Espinosa has written six books which are used in teaching. He also edited a monthly Spanish newspaper, The Pan-america, for two years.

"The Panamerica was to promote the Pan-American ideal among Spanish students. Over 2,000 students and teachers received copies each month," he commented.

Dr. Espinosa has shown great professional leadership in the Omaha U Foreign Language Department.

He established seven of the present advanced Spanish courses. He has introduced Italian, and Portuguese. In the Latin Department he has added five advanced courses including the study of classical Greek and Roman writers.

This leadership has been recognized in Who's Who in the Middle West. And in 1959 Dr. Espinosa was appointed Consul Ad-Honorem of Guatemala.

"But I'm still interested in work," he continued, "and I have no plans to retire completely. Of course, if the University offers me something I will take it, and if not, I will be unemployed. Then I will look for another job. Do you think I could maybe pump gas at a gasoline station?" he joked.

"Needless to say, I have been very satisfied to serve Omaha University. There has always been rapid expansion, a progressive outlook and the University has the promise of a great future," he concluded.

Fund Out of Cash Assoc. Gets More

The Alumni Association had its loan fund increased from $100 to $300 at its Board of Directors meeting last Monday.

The Association was forced to turn students away last week when it ran out of money. The fund is set up so that when the money is lent out, no one else may apply until some of the money is returned.

A student may borrow up to $5 by going to the Alumni Association Office on the second floor of the Student Center. The only requirement is that you present your activity card and sign a pledge promising to repay the money within a month.

Faculty and Staff Attend Lecture

Members of both faculty and staff attended the fifth in a series of six orientation meetings last Monday.

Dean Kirk Naylor introduced seven speakers who talked on their department role at the University, and how it affected the faculty and staff.

George Rachford, Head of the Graduate Division spoke on graduate studies at the university; Miss Ellen Lord, Chief Librarian, showed slides explaining how the new additions to the library would improve its present facilities; Lt. Col. Ratti, in charge of AFROTC spoke on his organizations role on campus and why more students should take it.

The fourth speaker was Ronald Pullen, head of the Audio-Visual Department, who explained the various facilities that his department had to offer; Dr. William Jaynes, head of the Industrial testing Department spoke on the various jobs that his department did, not only for OU, but also for other organizations in Omaha.

Paul Borge, Assistant Professor of Speech, Radio-TV spoke on the new radio-TV studio that is being built, with its newer facilities; Virgil Yelkin, Director of Athletics spoke on the various functions that the faculty and staff could attend on their activity cards.

The last of the series of six meetings will be held next Monday at 3:30 p.m. in the Conference Center in the Library.

Instruction Offered On Fallout Shelters

A fallout shelter analysis course will be offered at Omaha University this month.

The weekly evening class is designed for professional architects and engineers to familiarize themselves with technological advances in the fields of nuclear physics, weapon effects fallout characteristics, blast resistance considerations and the utilization of shelter systems.

The cost of the course is being underwritten by the Department of Defense. No tuition or fees will be charged for the course and all texts and other materials will be furnished free.

Graduates of the program will be certified by the Department of Defense and listed as qualified in fallout shelter analysis.

The program will start November 14 and run for 14 weeks.

The catalogue for graduate students is now available in the Graduate Studies office, 203 Adm.

Today and tomorrow, the University of Omaha will host a "Kick Off" Debate Tournament, with more than eighteen colleges and universities participating.

Colleagues from South Dakota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska will compete for trophies and awards in oratory, extemporaneous speaking, debate and discussion. Dean Kirk Naylor will serve as master of ceremonies.

Duane Aschenbrenner, Director of Forensics for Omaha University, said that the special feature of the two day event will be an International Debate at 11:30 a.m. today in the auditorium of the Administration Building.

Max Voigt and Stan Zwerling will represent Omaha University and Michael Howard and John K. Toulmin, both intended barristers, will represent Cambridge University, England, on the topic "HAS THE AMERICAN DREAM BECOME A NIGHTMARE?"

J. K. Toulmin

An early dismissal time due to Homecoming week-end, should afford many students the opportunity to take advantage of these outstanding speech events, Mr. Aschenbrenner added.

The English students, who are touring colleges west of the Mississippi, will arrive here Thursday night from Parsons College, Fairfield, Ia.

Following registration at 8 a.m. today, events commence at 9:30 with today's final debate scheduled at 5:20 p.m.

Saturday's schedule begins with Original Oratory, with final results of all events at 1:45 p.m.

New Plan For Grad Contacts

The Graduate Office announced this week that a new method of distribution of literature has begun in order to contact more students interested in graduate work.

In the past the brochures, flyers and literature have been sent to the individual colleges and universities across the United States.

Under the new plan of distribution, all material pertaining to the graduate program at OU will be sent to the departmental heads of the colleges and universities.

The new program is designed to contact more students and to inform them of the programs available at OU. In the past OU has had relatively few students entering the field of graduate studies. At present only 35 interns are working here.

OU presently offers graduate work in seven individual fields. They are: Biology, English, History, Psychology, Physical Education (men), Sociology and Education.

Students Choose Officers, Council Representatives

Students turned out Wednesday to elect class officers and freshman Student Council members. 1562 voters cast ballots in the all-school election.

Freshmen elected Betsy Rasmussen, Kristy Isaacson, Doug Slaughter, and Joe Beninato to serve on Student Council.

Leading the freshman class will be Mike Mench, president; Gregg Loso, vice-president; and Terri Pospichal, secretary.

The sophomore class chose Mike Sweet as their president. Jim Solomonson will be the vice-president. Pat Karra will serve as secretary.

Ken McEwen will preside over the juniors. Joe Snell will serve in the vice-president position, and Kathy Bowman will be the secretary.

For the second consecutive year, Jim Pelowski will head his class. Ken Allen will be serving as vice-president of the seniors. Earlene Timm won the secretary spot.

The ballots were cast in the Ben Gallagher Game Room on Oct. 30. The voting began at 9 a.m. and ended at 3 p.m.

Orphans Treated By Newman Club

Newman Club members took 40 orphans from St. James Orphanage trick or treating on Halloween. After 8:30 p.m., they returned to St. Margaret Mary's Grade school for a Halloween party.

The Newmanites are also planning a party after the Homecoming dance on Saturday. It will be held at the home of Jack and William Redmond, 452 J. L. George Blvd.

Newman members are also asked to attend a Communion Breakfast, 8:30 a.m. at St. Margaret Mary's Church this Sunday. Breakfast will be fixed in the church basement after Mass.

Initiates Announced By Phi Chi Theta

Five women were initiated into Phi Chi Theta, women's Business Honorary Tuesday.

They are Kathryn Bowman, Carolyn Meester, Bobbi Merica, Ellen Mitchell and Margaret Pentzien. The initiation was held in SC Room 301.

Women in the College of Business Administration, with at least a 2.00 accumulative average are eligible to become members.

Rally Turnout Bad; 175 Students Attend

by Linda Priesman

If student knowledge of available candidates was used as a necessary voting qualification for student elections, candidates will receive an average of two votes each.

At least that is the indication, according to the turnout at the Waokiya caucus held Monday in the Women's P.E. field at 1:30 p.m. Eighty-seven candidates and between 150 and 175 students attended.

The purpose of this caucus was to introduce the candidates to the students in an informal nature. Coffee was served to those in attendance in the S.C. Ballroom.

"It's too bad that more independents didn't attend because the caucus was held mainly for them," said Mary Beth Meyers, Waokiya sec'y. She went on to say that the majority of those in the audience were Greek.

Mary Beth continued, "The members of Waokiya feel that this was a good start and that more students will attend future caucuses."

OU Cadets Attend Commanders Call

The Arnold Air Society held its annual Commanders Call last Saturday at Drake University in Des Moines, Ia.

Five cadets from the University of Omaha and their advisor, Captain R. W. Seinwill, attended.

At the commanders call bids were taken from the University of Wisconsin, the University of Nebraska and Iowa State University for area headquarters.

Also discussed at the meeting were plans for the upcoming Arnold Air Conclave to be held in March.

In all, about 25 cadets from the University of Wisconsin, the University of Nebraska, Iowa State University, Drake University, the State University of Iowa and Omaha University attended.

Library Might Be Open On Sundays

The Faculty Library Committee is currently considering a proposal to keep the library open on Sundays.

University librarian Ellen Lord said that the suggestion was being given serious consideration and that a committee had been set up to look into the cost of the change.

The library is now open 8 1/2 hours a week; this includes Friday night and Saturday.

Sea Holds Membership Drive; Plans Trip to State Convention

A "get acquainted" hour was held October 18 by the Student Education Association. Guest speakers included Dr. Milo Bail and the departmental heads of the College of Education. All present or interested members were invited to attend.

Last year SEA's membership reached a total enrollment of 229, making it the largest organization on campus. A membership drive is underway presently to try to attain this goal again. Anyone interested in the field of education may join SEA by signing up in room 200 in the Adm. Bldg. or by speaking to Dean Frank Gorman. Membership fee is $3 per school year.

Secretary of SEA will be elected at the next scheduled meeting in November. Present officers include Linda Anderson, president; Kathy Welniak, vice president; Gary Meester, treasurer; Christie Jensen, historian; and Marlene Hall, publicity. Faculty advisor is Dr. Rene Hlavac.

A state wide convention of the State Education Association of Nebraska will be held at Wayne State Teachers College Nov. 16.

A car caravan will take students from Omaha U. to the convention held during American Education Week. A meeting will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Miss Ann Campbell, head lobbyist for the Nebraska Student Education Association, will speak on Nebraska legislation involving education during the past year.

Anyone interested in attending the conference can sign up in Dean Frank Gorman's office or with any officer in SEA before Nov. 8.

Rev Borg Speaks To Canterbury Club

Rev. Warren Borg, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, will speak at the weekly meeting of the Canterbury Club.

The gathering will begin at 6:30 p.m. in Trinity Cathedral. Rev. Borg will conduct a discussion-study on the sacrament of Confirmation.

Press Day Held For Omaha U Cage Team

Thursday was press day for Jim Borsheim's cagers as the local press, radio, and TV representatives were on hand to preview the '63-'64 squad. For the first time this season the team donned their game uniforms and gave onlookers an inkling of what to expect during the twenty game schedule.

With a little less than three weeks of practice under their belts, the cagers are starting to round into shape and have avoided any serious injuries. Freshman forward Mike Demkowski suffered the only hurt as he developed a slight knee problem. He is continuing his workouts with the team.

Joe Neuberger, a mainstay on last years team and now a graduate student, is helping Borsheim with the team in the capacity of assistant coach. The men currently practicing will have a four week jump on the footballers coming out for the team. Only three weeks of practice remain for them before the season opener with Simpson College on November 30.

Harriers Take First Four Meets Easily

An inspired OU cross country team rolled to its fourth straight victory last Friday as they recorded a 15-46 triumph over Simpson College.

Team sparking sophomore Ken Gould from Lyons, Nebraska romped home in 17:04 over the three-mile Elmwood Park course. This beat his previous best time of 17:07. Gould in four starts has taken first three times and has come in second once.

The harriers swept the first five places with Gerry Shook taking second; Pat Giddings, third; Herb Rhodes, fourth; and Loren Drum, fifth.

The harriers will host Nebraska Wesleyan University today at 4:00 over the four-mile Elmwood Park course.

CIC Title On Line For Homecoming

Second Half Surge By OU Thumps Northern Michigan By 28-17 Score

Tough all around play was the highlight of last weeks conquest of Northern Michigan. A last half surge by OU netted 14 points to make the final 28-17 for the Red.

A parents day crowd of 4,100 watched the much publicized OU line as they held the wildcats to 83 yards rushing.

A bad center and the resultant short kick were enough to stem the Wildcats' first score. It took them only five plays to take the ball 34 yards to OU's 11 yard line. Three plays later Ron Erickson took it over from the two. A head-on tackle attempt by Lee Milner at the goal was not enough to stop the momentum of Erickson. The score came with 7:25 left in the first period. The point after was good off the deadly toe of Gary Nyquist.

After OU was forced to punt again, the big red line came to life. They frequented the oppositions backfield and threw the backs for considerable losses.

Just as OU looked as if they were beginning to roll, a costly fumble came. Wayne Backes tried to lateral to Carl Meyers but just as Meyers took the ball he was hit. The ball was picked up by Jim Decker on the OU 19.

A gallant defensive effort carrying into the second quarter was to no avail as the toe of Nyquist made it 10-0 on a partially deflected field goal from the 10. It was fourth down when the kick came with only two seconds gone in the quarter.

OU's first score came on a play that would have to be termed lucky. A deflected pass sent the ball high in the air on the 13. Jack Kiscoan hauled in the wayward ball and scampered to paydirt. After Meyers kicked the conversion, the score remained at 10-7 until half time.

OU wasted no time in scoring in the second half as they took the opening kick and drove 67 yards in 13 plays. Respective runs by Sayers and Backes plus the familiar pass play of Meyers to Kettle were big contributing factors in that push. Meyers was the boy finally as he took the ball over from the two on a keeper. He then added the extra for a lead of 14-10.

Michigans fullback Bangert was the last one to score for them. Nyquist placed the conversion and it was 17-14.

But Meyers and Kettle combined again for an 18-17 edge.

Backes has trouble with a gang of Wildcats.

"Washburn Here in Home Finish"

by Mike Moran

Cheated out of a victory in the dying minutes of last Saturday's game with Pittsburg State, Washburn's Ichabods come to OU Stadium tomorrow with one thought in mind—to ruin Omaha's Homecoming and spoil the Indian hopes for a second straight CIC title.

"They should have whipped Pittsburg," said Omaha head master Al Caniglia after viewing game films and seeing Coaches Don Watchorn and Louie Miloni's scouting report.

The Ichabods will bring a speedy and talented backfield to town in quest of their fifth win. Transfer quarterback Billy Harper heads up the swift cast which includes speedy senior Ron Heck and soph whiz Frank Pickens, Washburn's leading ground gainer in 1962.

Harper is the reason for the Ichabod resurgence so far this year. The Detroit senior, a standout for Drake before running into a little trouble with school authorities last year, is second to OU's Carl Meyers in both passing and total offense in the latest CIC figures. He has averaged 108 yards a game passing and running.

at Topeka last year despite the fact that the Blues outrushed the Indians by 317-315. Only a 94 yard runback of a punted pass by Gerry Allen kept OU on top the first half as Washburn controlled the ball throughout.

The second half was somewhat different though, as Rocket Roger Sayers scored three times to seal the rout for Omaha.

This year Washburn has defeated Northeast Missouri, Central Missouri, Emporia State and Southern Colorado. They were forced to forfeit the two Missouri games, however, for using an ineligible player.

Washburn holds a 9-7 edge in the series, which dates back to 1947. Neither team has won more than two games in a row during that stretch. The Blues were the only team to beat OU in an 8-1 season in 1953.

OU injured are ready

On the Indian side of the teepee, things look good despite a severe physical battering at the hands of a rugged Northern Michigan squad.

Wayne Backes showed no signs of a charleyhorse in rushing for 101 yards in 18 carries. Neil Galloway (knee) and Roger Sayers (shaken up) are fit and ready to go also.

Carl Meyers exhibited his finest passing of the year against the Wildcats and receivers Jim Kettle and Jack Kiscoan never looked better.

An OU win will set up a conference championship game at Pittsburg next week should the Gorillas get by Emporia. It would make the third year in a row the two have met for the CIC title. Pittsburg took a 32-18 win for the crown two years ago and last year OU slapped a 35-0 rout on the Gorillas at Omaha to sew up the first Indian title.

Coach Caniglia still thinks that Washburn is the tougher of the two teams and he is definitely not looking ahead. "We've got to contain their running attack if we are to win this one," he said Monday after the film review.

Sayers looks for daylight around end.

Meyers made the placement.

With 1:15 left in the game, Meyers fired for 18 yards to his other end Jack Kiscoan for the final.

Coach Al Caniglia had praise for the team as a whole and gave special mention to Jack Petersen for an outstanding job on defense.

Tomorrow is Anniversary of Most Infamous OU Grid Clash

by Duane McPod

Tomorrow, Saturday, November 2, 1963, marks the 20th anniversary of Omaha University's "most fatal day" on the football field.

I'll bet if some of the old players were still around like Clarence "Sloppy" Duckworth, Naomi "The Animal" Umac and Bill "The Bat" Burgonowskiselch, they could tell you about it. However, each of them met with fatal disaster only a few years after they received their "diplomas" from their alma mater.

"Sloppy"

First, let me tell you about what happened to "Sloppy" and how he got his name.

He got his name because he was exactly that, sloppy. He would walk away from a dinner of spaghetti with the only thing to ever reach his mouth being the spoon. He could sit down to eat with the team on roadtrips to Arion (Iowa) College of Derelicts and not once get down that delicious meal of corned beef and oatmeal.

As for his fatal mishap. About two and one-half months after receiving his diploma he was eating at a local restaurant and, believe it or not some food hit his mouth and the taste of unborn octopus surprised him so much he died of shock.

"Animal"

Naomi "The Animal" Umac was a "petite" little thing. Yes, we had members of the female sex playing "pigskin" for us during those years.

She got her nickname, "The Animal" from some loving sorority sister of hers. She belonged to WWM sorority (We Want a Male) Her sisters lovingly tagged that name on her because of what one old co-ed called, "her attitude".

Naomi used to frolic with the idea she would be out on the field knocking down those bullies who wouldn't let her grandmother drink. You see her grandmother was Carry Nation, one of the leaders of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Naomi once explained the reason her grandmother fought so hard to get her cause through was that she (her grandmother) was once a lush and became bitter one day when she ran out of booze. The reason she couldn't buy any was because she had run out of Kleenex to make flower out of and therefore couldn't buy any of her favorite brand of tequila. The name of her brand was "Ye Olde La Cucaracha".

As for Naomi's fatal accident. One day when she was carrying on the cause of her grandmother she slipped and fell into a beautiful window that happened to connect into a whiskey factory's vat. She drowned but was happy in doing so.

"Batty"

Once I get around to talking about Bill "The Bat" Burgonowskiselch, I could go on forever.

But as time and space limit me I shall only write a few lines about him.

"Batty" as he was lovingly called got his nickname from some of his fraternity brothers. He belonged to WHF fraternity (We Have a Female). The boys in his frat house used to look out their windows and see this strange creature hopping from roof to roof yelling, "I come from the moon." Some of his frat brothers wished he'd go back to the moon once they found out it was him.

Anyway they gave him the name of "Bat", which several years later some guy who could draw, capitalized on the nickname and changed it to Bat-man, but that's secondary.

As to Batty's fatal accident. He was doing a soft shoe routine one day on the Ed Sullivan Show but made the horrid mistake of trying to do a triple upside down backward somersault, without his tap shoes on and with that, he slipped and broke his back.

Well anyway that's what happened to the three glamour boys (oops I mean two glamour bous and one ugly girl), of the 1934 Omaha University football team.

Anyway the fatal mistake that occured that day will go down in the annals of football with the heroics of Jimmy Brown and Jim Taylor but not in the same capacity.

"The Mistake"

Oh, yes the mistake. With Omaha University leiding Slippery Rock Teacher's College by 12-6 going into the final two minutes of play the Indians had the ball on the Monkeys 4-yard line.

Burgonowskiselch was playing fullback with Umac at quarterback and Duckworth at center, the previous play before the fatal one, "The Animal" had slashed off right guard for 43 yards to set up "the possible touchdown" play.

Naomi called for a crossback with Burgonowskiselch carrying the ball.

Duckworth set down over the ball but as fate would have it he sat down over the ball the wrong way and much to the chagrin of his teammates and the 80,000 people in the stands gave the ball to Vito "The Hawk" Genovese who took the ball and ran 96 yards untouched for the score.

That tied the game up at 12-12 with :32 seconds left (The Hawk was a slow runner).

And then the all important extra point attempt. The "Monkeys" place kicker, Sharanne Fink, hadn't missed in 564 straight attempts. The team didn't score a lot but whoever heard of eligibility time in those days. In fact whoever heard of television in those days.

"Where's Joe?"

Well anyway to get on with the suspenseful tale. Sharanne came in and made the point. After the conversion there was 18 seconds left on the clock. (She was a slow kicker and the ball weighed 7½ pounds. There wasn't too much of passing attack used in those days.)

Well anyway when speedy halfback Joseph "Just Call Me a Pigeon" Valachi took the kickoff there was three seconds left in the game. He sped toward midfield and with one great swoop of his legs jumped 35 feet in the air. He wasn't a great broad jumper either. The great H-bird, made famous later in connection with some country called Lower Slobovia took him off into the "Great Unknown". Well, anyway Valachi was never seen again, except one time when he was investigated about some family he was connectd with.

So we lost the game 13-12. But let me reserve that mention of the loss. It seems that the ball was never ruled dead on the kickoff play and so if "Uncle" Joe ever gets back he can run over the goal line and all the alumni of 1934 will forever be happy.

Well friends there you have the sad story of the 1934 Homecoming game.

Let's all get out there tomorrow and show the team we have great confidence that they won't repeat the "fatal mistake" of 1934.

By the way, just to be on the safe side why not bring along your homemade bazooka and a 88MM Howitzer just for precautionary measures?

Theta Chi Takes Four Mile Relay

Theta Chi won the four-mile relay held on the Omaha University track last Friday.

Posting a time of 24.49 for the distance the foursome was composed of Tony Martinez, Leroy Dyer, Brad Lambdin and Lyle Karre.

Finishing second was Pi Kap with Sig Ep taking third.

The Zeke Moe Joes continue their annual dominance of flag football, holding a record of 8-0. With just one game remaining against TKE, the Zekes are assured of at least a tie for the title.

Their only competitor is the Darts who are 7-1 and will have their season finale against the Sig Eps. The Sig Ep vs. Dart game was scheduled for last Tuesday, after this edition went to press.

Candidates for degrees with departmental distinction must (a) have attained an overage of 2.62 in their previous work and an average grade of 3.25 in courses in their major field (b) be recommended by the head of the department in their major field.

Pardon me if I sound as if the executive position I've landed deals with the whole future of the world.

It does.

Certainly, there's no organization today conducting more vital business than the business of the United States Air Force. And very few organizations that give a college graduate greater opportunities for responsibility and growth.

As an Air Force officer, you'll be a leader on the Aerospace Team—with good pay, a 30-day paid vacation each year, educational opportunities.

How can you get started? For many, the best way is through Air Force ROTC. But if you missed out on AFROTC, or if there's no unit on your campus, you can still apply for Air Force Officer Training School. This three-month course leads to a commission as a second lieutenant in the United States Air Force.

For more information about Air Force OTS, see your local Air Force representative.
